

A Guide to the Siting Approval Process (Quadra Island)

What is a Siting Approval?

A siting approval is a formal process that the Strathcona Regional District (SRD) administers when an application is made to construct, renovate, repair, or install any building or structure on Quadra Island.

Why do I need one?

The siting approval process ensures that community standards are achieved and ensures the long-term value of the homeowner's investment in property, by making sure that structures satisfy all relevant regulatory planning requirements. Siting approval is required prior to construction and for the issuance new street numbers (civic addresses) on Quadra Island.

What is reviewed?

A typical review of an application by the SRD includes examining the requirements for zoning, building siting, development permit areas (e.g. commercial or industrial), floodplain setbacks, registered documents on title, and Agricultural Land Reserve requirements and constraints.

Any person wishing to site a principal structure of any size, or accessory structure in excess of 20.0 square metres (215.3 square feet), must obtain a Siting Approval as a prelude to doing so.

How do I apply?

An Application for Siting Approval (Quadra Island) can be obtained from the SRD office or from the SRD website at www.strathconard.ca. You are encouraged to obtain further details and advice from planning staff when making an application.
